MURDERER CLIFFORD's friends are said to rely upon a letter written by Peck to Gov. Hoard, recommending the pardon of Clifford, for the success of their third application for pardon. Gov. Hoard and Gov. Hoard heard the case and refused to interfere.

A BRUTE'S FATE.

A Child-Murderer Receives His Just Deserts in Ontario.

L'ORIGINAL, Ont., June 5.—Narcisse Larocque, who on October 7 last brutally murdered two little girls named McConnel, was hanged here at 8:05 a. m. He died without a word and without the faintest sign of fear. He made no confession.

Larocque's victims were the children of James McConnel, a farmer living a mile and a half from the village of Cumberland, and were aged 14 and 15 years respectively. On Tuesday, October 7, the girls went to school as usual. About 4 o'clock in the afternoon they started for home and were last seen alive half a mile from there. They did not reach home and on Thursday a searching party scoured the country for them. At 10 o'clock that night the party came on the two bodies of the girls in a bush. They were lying side by side, partially covered by dead leaves. Mary's school books lay in her lap. Their tongues were protruded, and there was a dark circle on each neck, showing that death was caused by strangulation. They had also been assaulted. Larocque was arrested and convicted on purely circumstantial evidence.

ROSE ZOLDOSKE'S FATE.

A Jury of Old Men Chosen to Decide What It Shall Be.

MILWAUKEE, June 5.—Rose Zoldoske, the pretty milliner of Richland Center, who is on trial at Lancaster, will have a jury of old men to decide her fate. Only one of the twelve is under 40 years of age. Miss Zoldoske seemed to be relieved when the tedious task of getting a jury was over. She was more cheerful and self-possessed than usual, though last night she broke down for a time and wept. The court took a recess after impaneling the jury.

When court convened again District Attorney Burnham opened for the state by briefly stating the case to the jury. He said that in addition to the general facts brought out at the preliminary examination it would be shown that Rose Zoldoske strenuously objected to any investigation of Ella Maly's death, and showed every effort in her power to prevent such an investigation from being held. During the district attorney's address the defendant was noticeably pale, but she smiled a little at his remarks about her designs upon Dr. Mitchell. Mr. Burnham said to the jury that the state had no direct proof that Rose Zoldoske placed poison in the candy that she gave to Ella Maly but he said that the circumstantial evidence upon that point was conclusive.

HAD A NARROW ESCAPE.

Seven Milwaukee Firemen Nearly Suffocated by Smoke and Gas.

MILWAUKEE, June 5.—[Special.]—Seven firemen were overcome by gas and smoke at a fire in the basement of No. 403 Grand avenue, occupied as store and paint room by Nase, Kraus &amp; Koken, dealers in wall paper. Their fellow firemen, at the peril of their own lives rushed into the flames and dragged them out. They were then carried from the basement to the sidewalk, where the fresh air and vigorous rubbing finally revived them and they were taken, some to the Emergency hospital and others to their respective homes.

The fire is supposed to have been caused by self combustion. Firemen broke in the doors and found themselves right in front of the fire in a little store room in the basement. It was filled with paints and oils, which burned brightly and rapidly. The men were sent down, and then it was they succumbed in quick order. After they had been removed again, the large quantities of water which were thrown into the basement soon drowned the fire.

BLOOD IN BELOIT.

H. H. Jacobs, a College Student, Shot While Hazing "Preps."

A BANQUET PRECEDED BY FIGHTS.

Four Members of the Class Forcefully Taken From The City in Carriages to Prevent Their Attendance at the Festival Board Last Evening.

BELOIT, June 5.—A pistol shot and the bearing away of H. H. Jacobs badly wounded brought hazers to an abrupt stand-still last night.

The senior preparatory class gave their class banquet last night at the Grand Hotel. The freshmen have always taken upon themselves to make it interesting for the under class men and the preparations to carry off some of the class last evening were not different from those that have been made on former occasions.

A Scuffle Followed by a Shot.

Freshmen were lying in wait for some of the preps, when part of the crowd came down Public avenue. H. H. Jacobs, W. L. Belt, Otis and Messier, of the freshman class, made a rush on Ford, a colored member of the preparatory class. C. W. Wood rushed up, however, pulled a revolver and fired, striking Jacobs in the breast, the ball passing up and lodging under his arm. He went immediately to a physician, who pronounced it a serious though not dangerous wound.

Banqueters Badly Fought.

When the banquetters reached the hall part of them under escort of Marshal North four were missing. There had been four fights on the way, and some of the boys were badly battered. The missing members were finally traced, having been forcibly taken from the city in carriages.

It was ten o'clock before all sat down at the table. If all reports are true, they were not the only ones who were badly punished. Several outside the class carried to their pillows heads that were terribly banged up.

Macbeth's "pearl top" and "pearl glass" lamp-chimneys do not break from heat, not one in a hundred; they break from accidents.

They are made of clear glass as well as tough, as clear as crystal. They fit the lamps they are made for. Shape controls the draft; they are shaped right. Draft contributes to proper combustion; that makes light; they improve the light of a lamp.

But they cost a dealer three times as much as common chimneys, and, as they do not break, he is apt to be anxious lest they stop his trade. Diminished sales and less profit are not agreeable to him.

There are two sides to the question. Have a talk with him.

aware of the turn affairs had taken, proceeded on his search for the escaped vessel. The fact of the acceptance of the offer to surrender the Itata on her arrival in Chilean waters was therefore communicated to Admiral McCann, who was prepared to receive the Itata on her arrival.

This case is a remarkable naval chase. The judicial proceedings will be watched with interest, and as important questions of international law may be brought forward if the owners of the Itata insist on a full legal determination of all matters they may fairly bring up. It is likely that the case will be a celebrated one and a precedent that will be among the first looked up hereafter, should cases arise to which the questions settled in this case would be applicable.

PANAMA, June 5.—The Chilean insurgent warship Esmeralda has just arrived here.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 5.—Chilean dispatches describe a fierce naval battle in Valparaiso harbor April 28. The insurgent cruiser Magallanes attacked the government gunboats Aldoa, Lynch and Condell, and all were badly used up. Over 100 men were killed in the engagement. Fully one-half of the crew of the Magallanes were killed. The Condell had to run on a beach to prevent her sinking, while the Aldoa was so badly damaged as to require a long time to repair her. The Lynch was not seriously damaged. There were three foreign war vessels in the harbor at the time of the engagement.

On June 5—South American mails received by the bureau of American republics are full of interesting details of the Chilean civil war. The new Chilean congress convened by Balmaceda, which is now in session and in which Balmaceda's friends claim but two provinces are represented, has placed absolute power in his hands. It has authorized him, "pending the pacification of the country," to arrest and transport persons at will, to augment the land and sea forces, to expend the public revenues without regard to the estimates, to procure money by pledging the credit of the state, rendering an account to congress, and to suspend the right of meeting and the liberty of the press.

In pursuance of these powers decrees are published in the Diario Oficial releasing four citizens suspected of sympathy with the congressional revolutionists from imprisonment in the Santiago penitentiary, on their depositing $50,000 each in the Valparaiso national banks to the order of the secretary of the interior, conditioned on their not taking part in the revolution. They are further required to reside in Europe and not return to Chile without special permission of the government.

Ten or twelve other citizens are also released from imprisonment on similar conditions, their bonds ranging from $3,000 to $50,000, but with permission to remain in Chilean territory provided they do not "take part in politics."

The United States minister, Hon. Patrick Egan, and all the members of the diplomatic corps attended the opening of Balmaceda's congress, except the German and Italian ministers. The British, French, German and Italian governments, it is understood, have protested against the decree closing the commerce and ports of Chancal, Talait, Antofagasta, Topocilla, Iquique, Calista Buena, Junin, Piaguas and all the intermediate ports now held by the insurgents.

Representatives of the insurance company claim that these ports produce a revenue of $23,000,000, and that there are 40,000 foreigners resident in the provinces which the insurgents control.

Prices were said to be prevailing at Iquique. Meat was selling at 70 cents a pound, potatoes at $30 a bag and flour at $30 a bag.

GOBBLED BY THE TRUST.

CHICAGO, June 5.—The whisky trust has triumphed at last. The Distilling and Cattle Feeding Company, the incorporated name of the trust, has purchased the Henry H. Shufeldt and the Calumet Distilling Company's plants, thereby ending one of the bitterest fights between rival concerns ever known, and at the same time creating one of the most absolute and complete monopolies the commercial world has ever heard of. The two big anti-trust distilleries sold everything, which includes the real estate, machinery, stock of goods, patents, trade marks, good will and the right to continue the use of the names of the two companies. The purchase price, it is understood, is in the neighborhood of $4,000,000.

The purchase leaves the trust practically without a rival. The trust was organized four years ago, and with these purchases has succeeded in gobbling up every distillery in the entire country. One year ago it had four healthy rivals in the field. They were the St. Paul Distilling Company, the Riverdale Distilling Company, the Shufeldt and the Calumet. At that time it weakened its enemies' strength by securing the St. Paul concern, and last September the Riverdale was brought into the fold. And Thursday the crisis was reached after a most bitter fight on the part of the Shufeldts and Lynchs.

Thursday's purchases make the whisky trust the absolute owners of every distillery in Chicago. The Shufeldts have a capacity of 51,000 bushels, producing 25,000 gallons of whisky a day, proof goods. The Calumet's capacity is 38,000 bushels, or 17,000 gallons a day. Before Thursday's purchases the trust produced about 200,000 gallons a day. The other Chicago distilleries owned by the trust are the Phoenix, with a capacity of 3,500 bushels; the United States, 2,000; the Elmhurst, 2,000; and the National, 2,000. These four represent half the property of the trust, although if necessary the Chicago plants could produce about one-third of the total product.

President Sheridan, of the Calumet Distilling Company, is of the opinion that the new deal will not materially affect the price of whisky, as it has already reached the reasonable margin. To raise it much higher would invite competition with the Kentucky whisky and bring large amounts of aged goods into the market.

HE OWNED THE TOOLS.

The Gambling Implements Used at Tranby Croft Were the Property of the Prince of Wales.

LONDON, June 5.—One of the sensational features of the day in the racing scandal trial was the blagging out of the fact that the prince of Wales owned the counters that were used in the games at Tranby Croft. When young Mr. Wilson was on the stand it was shown in the cross-examination that the counters were a set that the prince carried about with him when visiting country houses for use in the indiscreet game of backgammon. This fact has been well known all along (before the trial and during its progress in court), but the fact that this ownership of the counters has been dragged out in court by Sir Edward Clarke, the leading counsel for the defense, is looked upon as being a direct and positive evidence that Sir William Gordon-Cumming is "showing his teeth," and that he is not inclined to spare his former friend, the prince of Wales, any further, for, as everybody admits, the heir apparent up to the present has been very leniently treated by both parties to this interesting suit.

A BANK FAILS.

Heavy Losses Through Overdrafts Cause the Suspension of a Huntington (Ind.) Financial Institution.

HUNTSVILLE, Ind., June 5.—The Huntington bank, for several days past, has been closed for business. The directors have decided upon the heavy losses the bank has sustained. The losses were caused by the cashier permitting depositors to overdraw their accounts. These overdrafts will probably amount to over $40,000. The directors will organize for a receiver. The bank was organized under the state law in 1893. Its capital stock was $25,000 and surplus of $16,000.

A Valuable Horse Burned.

CINCINNATI, June 5.—The celebrated $20,000 trotting stallion, Tom Roger, was burned to death at the Woodlawn stock farm. The barn was struck by lightning and was totally destroyed. Before aid could be rendered the horse was burned to death. Tom Roger was offered $15,000 for the animal a short time ago, but refused it.

Purify YOUR Blood WITH Hibbard's Herb Extract

A WONDERFUL CURE.

This is a true likeness of me wearing artificial nose and upper lip after Scrofula had consumed my nose and upper lip cured by Hibbard's Herb Extract. It is not a patent medicine, but a simple preparation of roots and herbs that I have cured over 47 years ago, since when I have cured thousands with its use. It requires a powerful vegetable remedy to effect such a cure as my own, and my argument has always been that the remedy that cured me would cure all forms of Scrofula or other Blood and Skin Diseases. Its success has been phenomenal. Send for list of testimonials and printed history of my case, or call on me any day or write and describe your case. Advice free.

RUINED? NOT AT ALL

Book County's Fruit Crops Will be Large as Ever.

DELAWARE STORIES WERE AFOAT.

Like the Peach Crop of That Sunny State the Rock County Growth has Been "Entirely Checked" Two or Three Times During the Season.

Reports coming to The Gazette of the past two or three days from all sections of Rock county contradict the reports sent in during the first two weeks in May regarding the injury to the fruit and berry crop by frost. These later reports are in effect that there will be more than an average fruit and berry crop, and that instead of the heavy frosts during May having destroyed these, there was little or no injury done except in a few localities.

Cherries will be plenty. There will be a large crop. Trees are loaded with well developed fruit for this season of the year, and unless something unforeseen and unexpected comes, the cherry crop will be larger than it has been for several years past. Apples are said to be maturing well, and promise a fair crop.

Contrary to previous reports the strawberry crop is now reported all right. Only in a few instances were strawberry beds injured by the May frosts and there will be an abundant yield in this section.

Grapes promise a fair yield. Grapes which were also reported as almost wholly destroyed by freezing temperature of May, are now fruiting nicely, and the indications are that growers will be rewarded by at least an average yield in the fall.

Raspberries and blackberries also promise a fair crop. The only thing now to prevent a fair yield will be too hot and dry weather from now until the berries ripen.

Some Orchards Hit Hard. Growers of all these fruits, especially those having large interests in stake fruit and berry crops, here and there orchards will be found where the frosts have destroyed all or nearly all the fruits and berries, but these are exceptional cases and not by any means the rule. Yet it was from these exceptional cases that the discouraging reports sprang. The copious rainfall of the past few days has been of inestimable value to the fruit and berry interests in this section. Strawberry interests, especially, were fast maturing and were suffering greatly for want of rain.

NOW HE ROOSTS ON CHILLY WIRES.

Whiting Allen's Story of a Little Boy's Ghost and Its Fate.

Whiting Allen, the high-browed advance agent for Forepaugh, has been making contracts for booming the big show in Janesville. He brought with him a story which he affirms is true: There was once a boy, so the story goes, who died and went to heaven, when he reached the gates of paradise, St. Peter asked him what sort of a circus he had seen in this year.

"Forepaugh," replied the little boy. "Who is he, Mr. Peter?"

"Who is he?" demanded the saint in amazement.

"Yes, sir."

"Do you mean to say you have just come from down there and have never seen the Forepaugh shows?"

"Yes, sir," said the little boy, "I was never to any show but the stereopticon of the Holy land and the panorama of the Bible."

The good saint grew crimson with wonder.

"Never to a circus?" he gasped.

"A circus," he repeated the good little boy, "what is that?"

Saint Peter's indignation was too great for words. He coughed, blew his nose, and looked wild. Then he took the good little boy by the nape of the neck and sent him outside the gate.

"Git," he said sternly, "you're too good for heaven. You would make the angels ashamed of themselves, you would."

"And that little boy, who was too good for heaven and not bad enough for the other side, is now a ghost, with no place to rest on but telegraph wires and other aerial passages," continued Mr. Allen sadly as he ended his recital and started for the Rockford train.

CO. 'A' WILL NOT INCORPORATE.

Militia Men Reconsider Their Original Motion to Secure Captain Glass.

The Light Infantry will not be incorporated. This decision was reached at a meeting of the company last evening. The motion to incorporate had been made in order to secure the captain in case suit should be begun on a company debt. At present the suit would lie against the captain, instead of against the company as a body. It was decided, however, that the captain could be secured against loss in other ways, and the matter was tabled. One new member was admitted to the company. Quartermaster Sergeant Allen was instructed to secure a rifle range at once.

THE FOURTH OF JULY.

Business Men Willing to Subscribe for a Celebration.

There is considerable talk among the business men about having a celebration on the Fourth and a number have been heard to express their willingness to subscribe for a fund to defray the expenses of the day. The feeling seems to be in favor of a celebration, one which will give the people entertainment at home and which will also attract visitors to the city on the Fourth. The idea is to keep as much money here as possible and at the same time draw outside capital here.

COWS CAUGHT BY HIGH WATER.

Militia men have a rifle range in view near the "sand hill" at the foot of Main street. Steps will be taken to lease the land and build a butt.

CHAPIN IS A PUZZLE

Hospital Authorities Admit That They Are Baffled.

NO ONE HAS YET IDENTIFIED HIM.

Dr. Head, of the Asylum, Satisfied That a Sandbag or Some Similar Weapon is Responsible for the Mysterious Patient's Mental Condition.

Chapin has become more of a mystery than ever. Dr. James Mills returned home to-day from Madison where he has been in attendance at the State Medical Society. While in Madison Dr. Mills visited Mendota hospital and had a long talk with Chapin.

"He talks as rational as any man," said the doctor, "I questioned him regarding his home and the only thing I could get out of him on this point was: 'I have railroaded it all over the country, and have been buying horses and stock, making my home anywhere I hang up my hat.'"

Fell in With Circus Men.

He said that he came to Janesville to collect some money, and while here visited a circus near the depot. He changed some money for a canvasman—a two dollar bill, and later declined to change a quarter thinking it a counterfeit. This was done in a saloon. He had over two hundred dollars in his hip pocket, fastened there with a safety pin. Leaving the saloon he said was the last thing he could recollect. The next thing he knew he was standing somewhere holding on to a fence, afraid to step either way. When taken to the city hospital he claims to have known what was going on around him, but did not know where he was, only that he was among friends, and was receiving the best of care, for which he is very thankful.

He Was Certainly Struck.

Dr. Head informed Dr. Mills that Chapin's condition was brought about by some injuries at present unknown. When he arrived at the hospital in Madison, blisters were applied to the back part of the neck, these having the desired effect, and consciousness was restored. Dr. Head has written to the parties Chapin named to him, but answers come back invariably, "I do not know the man."

No One Knows Where He Lives.

Dr. Mills says Chapin was out walking with other patients and appeared perfectly well. The mystery of his determination to give no one his home or the name of his friends has so far proven unsolvable.

Chapin told Dr. Mills that at one time he worked for Dr. Coon, near Janesville.

A Bright Magazine.

The June number of Romance, the New York story club's magazine, is now ready. It contains seventeen stories, all interesting and all of great merit. There is no better traveling companion than Romance, and those who are about to start on their summer jaunt will do well to leave a place in their gripbags for the June number.

There are four original stories in the June Romance. E. H. Lewis writes of a strange duel which took place in the Good Templars hall, where Charles Seates contributes a love story which is interesting and very effectively told. S. H. Behrend describes a bit of detective work. The story was written in German, and was translated for Romance by I. Furst. One phase of life in the coal regions is the theme which engages the pen of Daniel Dane. Besides these there is a story by the distinguished Spanish novelist, Don Pedro A. de Alarcon, dealing with events in the Carlist war. It was translated for Romance by E. J. Fagnudis.

When the hostess strikes the gong every young man must march to the next hammock. Prizes are awarded to the most entertaining conversationalist, of either sex. The young gentlemen vote for the young ladies and vice versa. Any young man found with a long hair on his shoulder or complexion powder on his coat sleeve is subject to a heavy fine.

RACED A TRAIN-DRIVER HURT.

Runaway Accident at Edgerton That May End Fatally.

The train broke from their fastening and ran down the railroad track after the fleeing train. Boden tried to get at the head of the horses and was thrown under the wheels, the wagon passing over his thigh and stomach. The team ran in to one of the switches, breaking the wagon and throwing a young boy to the ground and injuring him also. Boden's condition is said to be critical.

Nothing Soft About That Kick.

"You are out of date," said the hair-matress to the feather bed. "I may be a little old-fashioned, but I am no hairy tick," replied the feather bed. After which retort it laughed until it dropped down on the floor.—Indianapolis Journal.

PEST IN EACH HOME.

Janesville Cellars Responsible For Much of the Disease.

CONTAGION FROM BAD POTATOES.

Big Death Rate During the Two Months of April and May Explained by a Reference to the Condition of Many Basements in the City—A Remedy.

How many Janesville cellars hold spoiled potatoes, musty turnips and a miscellaneous collection of decayed vegetables?

The big death rate in April and May tells the story.

Lack of sewers may be partly to blame for the spread of disease germs, but foul cellars should not be forgotten.

"Janesville escaped very easily from the diphtheria outbreak," said Dr. O. P. Robinson this morning. "When the disease broke out I feared an epidemic, and am surprised it was checked so soon. The condition of many Janesville cellars was what alarmed me."

Cellars as Scourge-Breeders.

"I don't believe there is one in nine of the older houses in the city where vegetables are not kept in the cellar under living rooms. Potatoes, especially, give out the most poisonous emanations, and people are taken sick from breathing them, and die, and no one seems to know what all this is called 'fever,' or 'malaria,' or 'heart failure,' which is the latest medical absurdity and of late the grip is held responsible for a great deal of evil which rests in the vegetable bins and decaying refuse in the cellar. There are old meat barrels, boxes or shelves containing remnants of decaying fruits, bones and scraps dragged into the walls by rats. These attract vermin of all sorts and inevitably breed disease."

Leave no Rotteness There.

"There is a popular notion that the cellar must be looked after in the spring cleaning time. But by spring the seeds of disease and death may have been sown and the cleaning comes too late to save life. Decayed vegetables should never be permitted to remain in the cellar an hour. The walls should be swept and if there is sickness in the house the walls and floors should be sprinkled with a dilution of carbolic acid, or sulphur should be burned in the place."

Sulphur Does Quick Work.

"Upon a pan of hot ashes place a teaspoonful of sulphur and brimstone and let it burn. It will slowly consume and kill all unpleasant odors and destroy all disease germs with which it comes in contact."

"I firmly believe that over half the deaths in the ordinary run are caused from decayed vegetable matters and poor sewerage facilities."

SHARON WAR PATCHED UP.

Rev. Mr. Delo's Farewell Sermon in Sharon.

The Sharon church imbroglio has subsided into quasi peace—for the time being at least, though each of the contending parties maintain a position ready for an emergency. Rev. Delo delivered his farewell sermon, and is now awaiting the payment of his salary, which the Sharon report says has been ready for him any time he could deliver his closing sermon.

BURMESE PHENIX TOWNS.

Bamboo Enables a Burned Village to be Quickly Built from Its Ashes.

A striking illustration of the influence of the bamboo on the way of life on the character of the people may be found in observing one of the most frequent incidents of Burmese life—a house or village on fire.

In a country where the smoking of tobacco is limited neither by age nor sex, nor time nor place, and where houses are thatched and for half the year as dry as tinder, it will be understood that men become familiar with the phenomena of fire. It is less easy to realize the comparative indifference with which such a visitation can be received, or to credit the truth that to the easy-going population of this primitive region fire itself seems robbed of its terror.
